Collaborative practice is a more recent form of alternative dispute resolution. It involves principled negotiation where clients, their lawyers and other professionals (such as financial or relational experts) all commit to resolve their dispute according to agreed Collaborative protocols and without going to court.

It has been widely used throughout the United States, Europe and within the family sector in Australia and is now growing in the commercial sector in Australia.

Topics covered include:

- Interest Based Negotiation
- The Collaborative Approach
- The Paradigm Shift
- Communication Skills

- The Collaboration Contract
- Advocacy Issues
- Working with Other Professionals
- Starting a Collaborative Practice

The workshop features coached and interactive exercises designed to demonstrate the essential skills and processes used in the Collaborative area.
